Mixed Bread Platters

Our mixed bread platters are made up from the following extensive list of breads:

WHITE BREAD

Soft and tender with a thin crust, good white bread makes delicious sandwiches and is "de rigueur" for tea sandwiches, canapés and tramezzini. Toasted or not, it is the base for the renowned club sandwich.

ROLLS

Round or oval, these individual breads are crisp and crusty on the outside and tender on the inside. Made from whole-wheat or white flour they are perfect for individual sandwiches.

HOT DOG ROLLS

These soft oval yeast rolls are highly recommended for lobster rolls and salad sandwiches, like tuna fish or egg salad, as they deliciously absorb some of the tastes.

CIABATTA

An Italian classic popular the world over, ciabatta is marvellous, delicately sour country bread, made from yeast, flour, milk and olive oil. The result is a crusty, tender and supple bread that comes in many forms including rolls. It slices easily and the rolls are perfect for Pan bagnat.

HAMBURGER OR SANDWICH BUNS

Soft round hamburger buns are made with white flour, butter, yeast and salt and topped with sesame seeds.

BAGUETTE

The characteristic long thin French bread, traditionally baked in a wood-fired stone hearth, has a crispy crust and on the inside the dough is soft and light. The baguette has a delightful aroma and is made to be eaten right away.
